

Please Note: The naming convention used for .IES files is specific to the Model type. You may find .IES files that have been shared across several products because it has been deemed by LSI Engineering that the Light output testing results were equivalent across our product span and would be acceptable as representative samples.